Part II

Kobulov Group

The Kobulov Group at USIG occupies a series of rooms on the third floor front wing, access to which is through room 235. A Soviet soldier is always on duty at this entrance. He is armed, and has dark red piping on his uniform (not further identified) is required, even of Soviet personnel at USIG, to enter this room. The three Soviets Laptev, Sergeyev, and Belayev apparently are in possession of such passes. Their offices are adjacent to the Kobulov Group on the third floor, and they are permitted by the sentry to pass freely into room 235. No German visitors were ever received at room 235, and indeed there was little traffic at all in and out of that room in the period from 1950 to 1952. It was rumored at USIG among German employees that Kobulov had to do with the setting up of the East German Volkspolizei. As of 1 November 1952, preparations were again being made in expectation of a visit by Kobulov to his USIG office. It was noted in the past that whenever Kobulov was in his USIG office, his general secretary Antol Subarev used to phone down several times each day for large quantities of soda water. There are no Germans employed in the Kobulov Group at USIG, nor is there a corresponding German section elsewhere in the USIG building. Since at least as early as the fall of 1950, but ending in May of 1952, Belayev received daily bundles of Western German publications, including Die Welt, Die Neue Zeitung, Der Kurier, Der Telegraph, also Quick, Muenchener Illustrierte, Stern, and many others, plus the usual East German newspapers. The publications from West Germany and West Berlin were delivered each day by a German employed by the Petermann Verlag in West Berlin. The deliveries were reportedly stopped for lack of money whenever Belayev was absent from USIG, the publications were delivered to Laptev or Sergeyev. Belayev, Laptev, and Sergeyev all speak excellent German. Belayev was observed in July 1952 strolling south on Potsdamer Strasse, about one kilometer inside the West Berlin boundary.

Part III

Wismut AG Representative at USIG

Utkin has a soldier with him in his office at USIG, but no sentry is stationed at the office door. There is a Wismut office in Berlin-Karlshorst, probably not inside the Soviet compound there, staffed by two Germans, (fnu) Welk and (fnu) Rost. Both Welk and Rost frequently visited Utkin at USIG, usually escorting German visitors desiring to see him. These Germans were mostly employees of Wismut headquarters in Chemnitz. Also, every two or three days, Utkin was visited at USIG by Miss Ala Schmidt, an employee of Wismut headquarters in Chemnitz. The following are descriptions of persons connected with Wismut:

(fnu) Welk - aged 40-45; quite short and quite fat; speaks very good Russian;

(fnu) Rost - aged 30-35; blond, medium height; limps slightly;

(Both Welk and Rost formerly occupied offices at USIG, adjacent to Utkin.)

Ala Schmidt - looked Russian but was German; spoke very good Russian; born about 1919.

As an example of Utkin's apparent status at USIG, it is to be noted that Fakhren, the House Commandant, once refused to issue a permanent house pass for Utkin's interpreter (Welk?), remarking that he was not responsible for Utkin's affairs.

Part IV

German Personnel at USIG

Scientific-Technical Section (Nauchnyy-tekhnicheskiy Otdel) (NTO)

This section consists only of Levin and Isyumov, plus an unidentified Soviet female secretary. The only German connected with this section is Miss Ursula Eisner, age 23, about 168 cm. tall, thin, dark, pretty. She runs a technical library located on the premises of the USIG industrial exhibit in the rear wing of Askania House. She translates technical materials out of the library for Levin and Isyumov.

Levin and Isyumov receive German visitors from the various SAG plants and from the East German ministries. Both speak very good German.

Mining Section

The only person known in this section is Kolometsev. He rarely receives German visitors; he once received a group of German "activist" miners who were in Berlin for an activist rally (presentation of activist awards). The Russian designation of this section is unknown. Kolometsev had some Russian assistants, but their names and offices are unknown. He ostensibly was concerned only with coal mining.

Finance Section

German Chief of this section is Heinz Kurmann, assisted by Karl Faltin and one other person, an auditor (Revisor), who joined the section in late 1952. Faltin was formerly in the Commercial Section. Kurmann's predecessor was Josef Pratzke, who is now in the Planning Section. (Fnu) Nemits became Russian chief of this section in early 1952. The name of his predecessor is unknown.

In addition, the two auditors (fnu) Kiefke and Bruno Gehme are attached to the Finance Section, but occupy offices in the German part of the Raw Materials Section (Zentrales Versorgungskontor).

Production Section

Kozmin has been Soviet Chief of this section since early 1952. His predecessor, Timoshenko, reportedly was assigned to the AMO headquarters in Magdeburg on leaving USIG; he took one assistant, Shmatkov, with him.

The head of the corresponding German section for production is (fnu) Bujala. He is assisted by Karl Schmidt, (Fnu) Eggert, Miss Gerda Zappe, Walter Heide, Mrs. Tausendfreund (later transferred to Planning Section), and Wilhelm Jachnicke.

Raw Materials Section (Otdel Snabzheniya)

This section includes more Germans than any other section at USIG (excluding manual laborers, drivers, etc.). The German portion of this section is called the Central Procurement Office (Zentrales Versorgungskontor) and is located in the rear wing of the Askania House, on the third floor of the section housing the Soviet polyclinic, with the entrance from Liebermannstrasse. The German chief of the section is Eduard Panker. He has a staff of about twenty Germans. Among them is Rudolf Neumann, the former Director of DIA-Metall.

Planning Section

This section consists only of Polynov, Titov, and an unidentified Russian secretary, plus the following two Germans:

Josef Pratzke (Chief) - Formerly in the Planning Section of Amtovelo Headquarters

Mrs. (fnu) Tausendfreund - A born Russian, married to a German; formerly employed in the Planning Section of SAG Zement Headquarters.

Zaytsev's predecessor as Chief of Section was (fnu) Timofeyev, who left USIG in December 1950. The Commercial Section proper was (as it is now) located on the ground floor of USIG, rooms 31, 33, and 34, but Timofeyev also maintained an office on the third floor, room 218 (i.e. adjacent to the Kobulov Group).

Yershov has been Chief of Section since May 1952, succeeding Boris Shalhanov. Yershov is not identical with the (fnu) Yershov who was until May 1952 a leading official of SAG Zement Headquarters in Berlin. Yershov is responsible for all housekeeping activities at USIG, for the whole supply inventory at USIG (furniture, etc.), for approving housekeeping bills at USIG, and for hiring housekeepers and other administrative staff personnel (German).

Part VI

Miscellaneous Notes on USIG

1. There are twelve Soviet officials at USIG who have extensions of a teletype service in their offices. These include:

Bebenin
 Isyumov
 Krutko
 Yereimin
 Fomenko
 Kobulov
 Levshin
 Pustovalov

2. There is a direct service telephone line to the various SAG factories (Industrie-Leitung). There are between 60 and 70 extensions from this line at USIG. The extension numbers are not consecutive; number 78 was the highest number remembered.
3. Until May or June 1952 Germans and Russians belonging to the same sections worked together in the same office rooms. A ruling was then handed down that the German employees must sit in separate offices. Opaque glass walls were set up to separate the front wing of the building (facing the Berliner Allee) from the rear wing (facing the Liebermannstrasse). It is in the latter wing that the Germans now sit. At the same time, a new system of house passes was established, in order to restrict access to the front wing to those German employees actually responsible to Soviet officials with offices in that wing.
4. There are the following six guard stations at USIG:
  - Number 1 - At the barrier leading from the Berliner Allee to the courtyard
  - Number 2 - At the main entrance to USIG on the Berliner Allee
  - Number 3 - At the entrance to the garage
  - Number 4 - At the entrance to the Polyklinik
  - Number 5 - At the door leading from the rear wing to the courtyard
  - Number 6 - A roving guard
5. The Soviet Club rooms are located on the fourth floor. The Club contains a hall for showing movies, an assembly room with a public address system for conferences, billiards, a chess room, a library and reading room.
6. Room 204 appears to be a reception office for receiving new arrivals from the USSR.
7. Every Russian official at USIG is required to take two hours of language instruction each day.
8. The fourth floor, rear wing, was given over to the storage of furniture belonging to USIG. The fifth floor houses the Soviet Personnel Section. The sixth floor houses the Soviet Trade Union Secretary, Vassilyev, and contains a large conference room. The office of the Communist Party Secretary for Soviet Personnel is located on the seventh floor. The eighth floor contains rooms for the Soviet guard detail.
9. The following installations formerly were run by USIG in Berlin-Weissensee:
  - Trarbacherstrasse 19 and 20 (formerly used as billets for Soviet USIG personnel) and 3 (formerly a retail store for Soviet personnel)
  - Linden Allee (formerly used as billets by Soviet personnel)
  - Bannfelderstr., Strassburgstr., Mutzigerstr., Metzstr. (all formerly used as billets by Soviet personnel)
